

10 JOSE ANTONIO AGUILAR
11 JARAMILLO,

12 Plaintiff,

13 v.

14 MICHAEL LEISHMAN, ANTONIO
15 MONTOJO, AND THE CITY OF SAN MATEO,

16 Defendants.

Case No.13-cv-00441-NC

FINAL JURY INSTRUCTIONS

17 I. INTRODUCTION

18 Members of the Jury: Now that you have heard all of the evidence, it is my duty to 19 instruct you as to the law of the case.

20 Each of you has received a copy of these instructions that you may take with you to 21 the jury room to consult during your deliberations.

22 You must not infer from these instructions or from anything I may say or do as 23 indicating that I have an opinion regarding the evidence or what your verdict should be.

24 It is your duty to find the facts from all the evidence in the case. To those facts you 25 will apply the law as I give it to you. You must follow the law as I give it to you whether 26 you agree with it or not. And you must not be influenced by any personal likes or dislikes, opinions, prejudices, or sympathy. That means that you must decide the case solely on the

1 evidence before you. You will recall that you took an oath to do so. In following my 2 instructions, you must follow all of them and not single out some and ignore others; they 3 are all important.

4 II. SUMMARY OF THE CLAIMS AND DEFENSES IN THIS CASE

5 The following is a brief review of the case:

6 This is a civil case of alleged excessive use of force by San Mateo Police Department
7 officers. It stems from an incident that occurred on the evening of March 13, 2012, in the 8 City of San Mateo. Plaintiff Jose Antonio Aguilar Jaramillo was arrested that night.
9 Jaramillo contends that the arresting officers, Michael Leishman and Antonio Montojo, 10 used excessive and unreasonable force against him. Leishman and Montojo deny the 11 claim, and instead contend that the force they used was reasonable under the 12 circumstances.

13 III. BURDEN OF PROOF

14 When a party has the burden of proof on any claim by a preponderance of the 15 evidence, it means you must be persuaded by the evidence that the claim is more probably 16 true than not true.

17 You should base your decision on all of the evidence, regardless of which party
18 presented it.

19 IV. EVIDENCE

20 A. Evidence You May Consider

21 The evidence you are to consider in deciding what the facts are consists of: (1) the 22 sworn testimony of any witness; (2) the exhibits received into evidence; and (3) any facts
23 to which the lawyers have agreed.

24 1. Evaluation of Witness Testimony

25 In deciding the facts in this case, you may have to decide which testimony to believe 26 and which testimony not to believe. You may believe everything a witness says, or part of 27 it, or none of it. Proof of a fact does not necessarily depend on the number of witnesses 28 who testify about it. In considering the testimony of any witness, you may take into

1 account:

- 2 (1) the opportunity and ability of the witness to see or hear or know the things 3 testified to;
- 4 (2) the witness's memory;
- 5 (3) the witness's manner while testifying;
- 6 (4) the witness's interest in the outcome of the case and any bias or prejudice;
- 7 (5) whether other evidence contradicted the witness's testimony;
- 8 (6) the reasonableness of the witness's testimony in light of all the evidence; and
- 9 (7) any other factors that bear on believability.

10 The weight of the evidence as to a fact does not necessarily depend on the number of 11 witnesses who testify about it.

12           2. Use of Interpreters

13 Languages other than English were used during this trial. The evidence to be 14 considered by you is only that provided through the official court interpreters. Although 15 some of you may know Spanish, it is important that all jurors consider the same evidence.
16 Therefore, you must accept the English translation. You must disregard any different 17 meaning.

18 You must not make any assumptions about a witness or a party based solely upon the 19 use of an interpreter to assist that witness or party.

20           3. Expert Witnesses

21 Some witnesses, because of education or experience, are permitted to state opinions 22 and the reasons for those opinions.

23 Opinion testimony should be judged just like any other testimony. You may accept it 24 or reject it, and give it as much weight as you think it deserves, considering the witness's 25 education and experience, the reasons given for the opinion, and all the other evidence in 26 the case. The expert witnesses who testified in this case are Dr. Henry J. Domeniconi and 27 Dr. Robert D. Argand.

28 //

1                   4. Stipulated Facts

2                   The parties have agreed to certain facts that have been provided to you. You should 3 therefore treat these facts as having been proved.

4                   B. Things You May Not Consider

5                   In reaching your verdict, you may consider only the testimony and exhibits received 6 into evidence. Certain things are not evidence, and you may not consider them in deciding 7 what the facts are. I will list them for you:

8                   (1) Arguments and statements by lawyers are not evidence. The lawyers are not 9                   witnesses. What they have said in their opening statements, closing arguments, and 10                  at other times is intended to help you interpret the evidence, but it is not evidence.
11                  If the facts as you remember them differ from the way the lawyers have stated them, 12                  your memory of them controls.

13                  (2) Questions and objections by lawyers are not evidence. Attorneys have a duty to 14                  their clients to object when they believe a question is improper under the rules of 15                  evidence. You should not be influenced by the objection or by the court's ruling on 16                  it.

17                  (3) Testimony that has been excluded or stricken, or that you have been instructed 18                  to disregard, is not evidence and must not be considered.

19                  (4) Anything you may have seen or heard when the court was not in session is not 20                  evidence. You are to decide the case solely on the evidence received at the trial.

21                   C. Types of Evidence

22                  Evidence may be direct or circumstantial. Direct evidence is direct proof of a fact,
23                  such as testimony by a witness about what that witness personally saw or heard or did.

24                  Circumstantial evidence is proof of one or more facts from which you could find 25                  another fact. You should consider both kinds of evidence. The law makes no distinction
26                  between the weight to be given to either direct or circumstantial evidence. It is for you to 27                  decide how much weight to give to any evidence.

28                  By way of example, if you wake up in the morning and see that the sidewalk is wet,

1 you may find from that fact that it rained during the night. However, other evidence, such 2 as a turned on garden hose, may provide a different explanation for the presence of water
3 on the sidewalk. Therefore, before you decide that a fact has been proved by 4 circumstantial evidence, you must consider all the evidence in the light of reason,
5 experience, and common sense.

6 D. Evidence in Electronic Format

7 Those exhibits capable of being displayed electronically will be provided to you in 8 that form, and you will be able to view them in the jury room. A computer will be 9 available to you in the jury room.

10 A court technician will show you how to operate the computer and how to locate and 11 view the exhibits on the computer. You will also be provided with a paper list of all 12 exhibits received in evidence. If you need additional equipment or supplies, you may 13 make a request by sending a note.

14 In the event of any technical problem, or if you have questions about how to operate 15 the computer or other equipment, you may send a note to the clerk, signed by your 16 foreperson or by one or more members of the jury. Be as brief as possible in describing 17 the problem and do not refer to or discuss any exhibit you were attempting to view.

18 If a technical problem or question requires hands-on maintenance or instruction, a 19 court technician may enter the jury room with the clerk present for the sole purpose of 20 assuring that the only matter that is discussed is the technical problem. When the court
21 technician or any non-juror is in the jury room, the jury shall not deliberate. No juror may 22 say anything to the court technician or any non-juror other than to describe the technical 23 problem or to seek information about operation of equipment. Do not discuss any exhibit 24 or any aspect of the case.

25 The sole purpose of providing the computer in the jury room is to enable jurors to 26 view the exhibits received in evidence in this case. You may not use the computer for any 27 other purpose. At my direction, technicians have taken steps to make sure that the 28 computer does not permit access to the Internet or to any "outside" website, database,

1 directory, game, or other material. Do not attempt to alter the computer to obtain access to 2 such materials. If you discover that the computer provides or allows access to such 3 materials, you must inform me immediately and refrain from viewing such materials. Do 4 not remove the computer or any electronic data from the jury room, and do not copy any 5 such data.

6 V. JARAMILLO'S SECTION 1983 CLAIM (FEDERAL CLAIM)

7 Plaintiff Jaramillo brings his claims under the federal statute, 42 U.S.C. § 1983, 8 which provides that any person or persons who, under color of law, deprives another of 9 any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution or laws of the United 10 States shall be liable to the injured party.

11 A. Elements and Burden of Proof

12 In order to prevail on his section 1983 claim against Leishman and Montojo,
13 Jaramillo must prove each of the following elements by a preponderance of the evidence:

- 14     1. the defendant acted under color of law; and 15     2. the acts of the defendant deprived the plaintiff of his particular rights under the 16         United States Constitution as explained in later instructions.

17 A person acts “under color of law” when the person acts or purports to act in the 18 performance of official duties under any state, county, or municipal law, ordinance, or 19 regulation. The parties have stipulated that defendants Leishman and Montojo were acting 20 under color of law at the time of this incident.

21 If you find Jaramillo has proved each of these elements, and if you find that Jaramillo
22 has proved all the elements he is required to prove under the other section 1983
23 instructions, your verdict should be for Jaramillo. If, on the other hand, Jaramillo has 24 failed to prove any one or more of these elements, your verdict should be for the defendant
25 officers Leishman and Montojo.

26 B. Causation

27 In order to establish that the acts or failures to act of Leishman and Montojo deprived
28 Jaramillo of his particular rights under the United States Constitution as explained in later

1 instructions, Jaramillo must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the officers' 2 conduct was so closely related to the deprivation of Jaramillo's rights as to be the moving 3 force that caused the ultimate injury.

4 C. Particular Rights – Fourth Amendment – Excessive Force

5 In general, a seizure of a person is unreasonable under the Fourth Amendment if a 6 law enforcement officer uses excessive force in making a lawful arrest or defending 7 himself. Thus, in order to prove an unreasonable seizure in this case, Jaramillo must prove 8 by a preponderance of the evidence that Leishman or Montojo used excessive force on 9 Jaramillo.

10 Under the Fourth Amendment, a law enforcement officer may only use such force as 11 is "objectively reasonable" under all of the circumstances. In other words, you must judge 12 the reasonableness of a particular use of force from the perspective of a reasonable officer 13 on the scene and not with the 20/20 vision of hindsight.

14 In determining whether Leishman and Montojo used excessive force in this case, 15 consider all of the circumstances known to the officers on the scene, including:

- 16 1. The severity of the crime or the circumstances to which Leishman and 17 Montojo were responding;
- 18 2. Whether Jaramillo posed an immediate threat to the safety of Leishman, 19 Montojo, or to others;
- 20 3. Whether Jaramillo was actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest 21 by flight;
- 22 4. The amount of time and any changing circumstances during which Leishman
23 or Montojo had to determine the type and amount of force that appeared to be 24 necessary;
- 25 5. The type and amount of force used;
- 26 6. The availability of alternative methods to subdue Jaramillo.

27 D. Excessive Force

28 Use of reasonable and legitimate force can result in an injury, even a serious injury.

1 However, an officer is only liable if he or she uses excessive force. If an officer uses
2 reasonable force, the officer cannot be liable under any circumstance, even if a serious
3 injury results.

4 VI. JARAMILLO'S STATE LAW CLAIMS

5 A. Bane Act (California Civil Code § 52.1)

6 1. Elements

7 Jaramillo claims that Leishman or Montojo intentionally interfered with his civil 8 rights by threats, intimidation or coercion. To establish this claim, Jaramillo must prove 9 all of the following by a preponderance of the evidence:

- 10 1. (a) That Leishman or Montojo acted towards Jaramillo in a manner that a 11 reasonable person would have found threatening, intimidating, or coercive,
12 which interfered with Jaramillo's rights under the United States or California
13 constitutions to be free from excessive force;
14 or
15 (b) That Leishman or Montojo acted violently against Jaramillo, which 16 interfered with Jaramillo's rights under the United States or California
17 constitutions to be free from excessive force;
18 or
19 (c) That Leishman or Montojo acted violently against Jaramillo to prevent 20 Jaramillo from exercising his rights under the United States or California
21 constitutions to be free from excessive force, or to retaliate against him 22 for exercising these rights.
- 23 2. That Jaramillo was harmed; and
- 24 3. That Leishman's or Montojo's conduct was a substantial factor in causing
25 Jaramillo's harm.

26 2. Substantial Factor – Defined

27 A substantial factor in causing harm is a factor that a reasonable person would 28 consider to have contributed to the harm. It must be more than a remote or trivial factor.

1 It does not have to be the only cause of the harm.

2       B.    Battery by a Peace Officer

3           1.    Elements

4 Jaramillo claims that Leishman or Montojo harmed him by using unreasonable force
5 to arrest him. To establish this claim, Jaramillo must prove all of the following by a 6 preponderance of the evidence:

- 7           1.    That Leishman or Montojo intentionally touched Jaramillo;
8           2.    That Leishman or Montojo used unreasonable force to arrest Jaramillo;
9           3.    That Jaramillo did not consent to the use of that force;
10          4.    That Jaramillo was harmed; and
11          5.    That Leishman's or Montojo's use of unreasonable force was a substantial 12           factor in causing Jaramillo's harm.

13 A police officer may use reasonable force to arrest or detain a person when he or she 14 has reasonable cause to believe that that person has committed a crime. Even if the police 15 officer is mistaken, a person being arrested or detained has a duty not to use force to resist
16 the police officer unless the police officer is using unreasonable force.

17 In deciding whether Leishman or Montojo used unreasonable force, you must 18 determine the amount of force that would have appeared reasonable to a police officer in 19 Leishman's or Montojo's position under the same or similar circumstances. You should 20 consider, among other factors, the following:

- 21           1.    The seriousness of the crime at issue;
22           2.    Whether Jaramillo reasonably appeared to pose an immediate threat to the 23           safety of Leishman, Montojo, or others; and
24           3.    Whether Jaramillo was actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest.

25 A police officer who makes or attempts to make an arrest is not required to retreat 26 or cease from his or her efforts because of the resistance or threatened resistance of 27 the person being arrested.

1                   2. Intent – Defined

2                   Leishman or Montojo acted intentionally if they intended to cause harmful or 3                   offensive contact with Jaramillo, or if they were substantially certain that harmful or 4                   offensive contact would result from their conduct.

5                   C. Negligence

6                   1. Elements

7                   Jaramillo claims that he was harmed by Leishman's or Montojo's negligence. To 8                   establish this claim, Jaramillo must prove all of the following by a preponderance of the 9                   evidence:

- 10                  1. That Leishman or Montojo was negligent;
11                  2. That Jaramillo was harmed; and 12                  3. That Leishman's or Montojo's negligence was a substantial factor in causing 13                   Jaramillo's harm.

14                  2. Basic Standard of Care – Defined

15                  Negligence is the failure to use reasonable care to prevent harm to oneself or to 16                   others.

17                  A person can be negligent by acting or by failing to act. A person is negligent if he or 18                   she does something that a reasonably careful person would not do in the same situation or 19                   fails to do something that a reasonably careful person would do in the same situation.

20                  You must decide how a reasonably careful person would have acted in Leishman's,
21                   Montojo's, and Jaramillo's situation.

22                  3. Comparative Fault of Plaintiff

23                  Leishman and Montojo claim that Jaramillo's own negligence contributed to his 24                   harm. To succeed on this defense, Leishman and Montojo must prove both of the 25                   following by a preponderance of the evidence:

- 26                  1. That Jaramillo was negligent; and 27                  2. That Jaramillo's negligence was a substantial factor in causing his harm.

28                  If Leishman and Montojo prove the above, Jaramillo's damages for negligence are

1 reduced by your determination of the percentage of Jaramillo's responsibility. I will 2 calculate the actual reduction.

3           4. Causing Harm: Substantial Factor – Defined

4 A substantial factor in causing harm is a factor that a reasonable person would
5 consider to have contributed to the harm. It must be more than a remote or trivial factor.
6 It does not have to be the only cause of the harm.

7           D. Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress

8           1. Elements

9 Jaramillo claims that the conduct of Leishman or Montojo caused him to suffer
10 severe emotional distress. To establish this claim, Jaramillo must prove all of the 11 following by a preponderance of the evidence:

- 12           1. That Leishman's or Montojo's conduct was outrageous;
13           2. That Leishman or Montojo intended to cause Jaramillo's emotional distress;
14           or
15           That Leishman or Montojo acted with reckless disregard of the probability that 16           Jaramillo would suffer emotional distress, knowing that Jaramillo was present when 17           the conduct occurred;
18           3. That Jaramillo suffered severe emotional distress; and 19           4. That Leishman's or Montojo's conduct was a substantial factor in causing 20           Jaramillo's severe emotional distress.

21           2. Outrageous Conduct – Defined

22 "Outrageous conduct" is conduct so extreme that it goes beyond all possible bounds
23 of decency. Conduct is outrageous if a reasonable person would regard the conduct as 24 intolerable in a civilized community. Outrageous conduct does not include trivialities such 25 as indignities, annoyances, hurt feelings, or bad manners that a reasonable person is 26 expected to endure.

27           In deciding whether Leishman's or Montojo's conduct was outrageous, you may 28 consider, among other factors, the following:

- 1                     (a)    Whether Leishman or Montojo abused a position of authority or a
2                     relationship that gave them real or apparent power to affect Jaramillo's interests;
3                     (b)    Whether Leishman or Montojo knew that Jaramillo was particularly 4                     vulnerable to emotional distress; and 5                     (c)    Whether Leishman or Montojo knew that their conduct would likely result in 6                     harm due to mental distress.

7                     3. Reckless Disregard – Defined

8                     Leishman or Montojo acted with reckless disregard in causing Jaramillo's emotional 9                     distress if:

- 10                    1.    Leishman or Montojo knew that emotional distress would probably result 11                     from their conduct; or 12                    2.    Leishman or Montojo gave little or no thought to the probable effects of their 13                     conduct.

14                     4. Severe Emotional Distress – Defined

15                     Emotional distress includes suffering, anguish, fright, horror, nervousness, grief, 16                     anxiety, worry, shock, humiliation, and shame.

17                     “Severe emotional distress” is not mild or brief; it must be so substantial or long 18                     lasting that no reasonable person in a civilized society should be expected to bear it.
19                     Jaramillo is not required to prove physical injury to recover damages for severe emotional 20                     distress.

21                     VII. DAMAGES

22                     A. Multiple Legal Theories

23                     Jaramillo seeks damages from Leishman and Montojo under more than one legal 24                     theory. However, each item of damages may be awarded only once, regardless of the 25                     number of legal theories alleged. You will be asked to decide whether defendants are 26                     liable to Jaramillo under the following legal theories:

- 27                    1.    Violation of the Fourth Amendment—Excessive Force
28                    2.    Interference with Jaramillo's Civil Rights (Bane Act)

- 1           3.     Battery
2           4.     Negligence
3           5.     Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress

4     Past, noneconomic loss, including physical pain and mental suffering, are recoverable
5     only once under all of the above legal theories.

6     B. Proof and Measure of Damages

7     It is the duty of the court to instruct you about the measure of damages. By 8     instructing you on damages, the court does not mean to suggest for which party your 9     verdict should be rendered.

10    If you find for Jaramillo on one or more substantive claims against one or both 11    defendants, you must determine Jaramillo's damages. Jaramillo has the burden of proving 12    damages by a preponderance of the evidence. Damages means the amount of money that 13    will reasonably and fairly compensate Jaramillo for any injury you find was caused by 14    defendants. In determining the measure of damages, you should consider the following:

- 15    1.     The nature and extent of the injuries;
16    2.     The disability, disfigurement, and loss of enjoyment of life experienced and 17        which with reasonable probability will be experienced in the future;
18    3.     The mental, physical, and emotional pain and suffering experienced and 19        which with reasonable probability will be experienced in the future;
20    4.     The reasonable value of necessary medical care, treatment, and services
21        received to the present time;
22    5.     The reasonable value of wages, earnings, earning capacity, business
23        opportunities, and employment opportunities lost to the present time;
24    6.     The reasonable value of wages, earnings, earning capacity, business
25        opportunities, and employment opportunities and which with reasonable 26        probability will be lost in the future.

27    It is for you to determine what damages, if any, have been proved.

28    Your award must be based upon evidence and not upon speculation, guesswork or

1 conjecture.

2 C. Punitive Damages

3 If you find one or both defendants liable, you may, but are not required to, award
4 punitive damages. The purposes of punitive damages are to punish a defendant and to 5 deter similar acts in the future. Punitive damages may not be awarded to compensate a
6 plaintiff.

7 Here, Jaramillo has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that 8 punitive damages should be awarded, and, if so, the amount of any such damages. You
9 may award punitive damages only if you find that Leishman's or Montojo's conduct that 10 harmed Jaramillo was malicious, oppressive or in reckless disregard of Jaramillo's rights.
11 Conduct is malicious if it is accompanied by ill will, or spite, or if it is for the purpose of 12 injuring Jaramillo. Conduct is in reckless disregard of Jaramillo's rights if, under the 13 circumstances, it reflects complete indifference to Jaramillo's safety or rights, or if 14 Leishman or Montojo acts in the face of a perceived risk that their actions will violate 15 Jaramillo's rights under federal law. An act or omission is oppressive if Leishman or 16 Montojo injures or damages or otherwise violates Jaramillo's rights with unnecessary 17 harshness or severity, such as by the misuse or abuse of authority or power or by the taking 18 advantage of some weakness or disability or misfortune of Jaramillo.

19 If you find that punitive damages are appropriate, you must use reason in setting the 20 amount. Punitive damages, if any, should be in an amount sufficient to fulfill their 21 purposes but should not reflect bias, prejudice, or sympathy toward any party. In 22 considering the amount of any punitive damages, consider the degree of reprehensibility of 23 Leishman's or Montojo's conduct. In addition, you may consider the relationship of any 24 award of punitive damages to any actual harm inflicted on Jaramillo.

25 VIII. CONDUCT OF THE JURY

26 Because you must base your verdict only on the evidence received in the case and on 27 these instructions, I remind you that you must not be exposed to any other information
28 about the case or to the issues it involves. Except for discussing the case with your fellow

1       jurors during your deliberations:

2                  Do not communicate with anyone in any way and do not let anyone else
3                  communicate with you in any way about the merits of the case or anything to do with it.
4                  This includes discussing the case in person, in writing, by phone or electronic means, via 5                  email, text messaging, or any Internet chat room, blog, website or other feature. This 6                  applies to communicating with your family members, your employer, the media or press,
7                  and the people involved in the trial. If you are asked or approached in any way about your 8                  jury service or anything about this case, you must respond that you have been ordered not 9                  to discuss the matter and to report the contact to the court.

10                 Do not read, watch, or listen to any news or media accounts or commentary about the 11                 case or anything to do with it; do not do any research, such as consulting dictionaries, 12                 searching the Internet or using other reference materials; and do not make any 13                 investigation or in any other way try to learn about the case on your own.

14                 The law requires these restrictions to ensure the parties have a fair trial based on the 15                 same evidence that each party has had an opportunity to address. A juror who violates 16                 these restrictions jeopardizes the fairness of these proceedings, and a mistrial could result
17                 that would require the entire trial process to start over. If any juror is exposed to any 18                 outside information, please notify the court immediately.

19                 IX. THE JURY'S DUTY TO DELIBERATE

20                 When you begin your deliberations, you should elect one member of the jury as your 21                 presiding juror. That person will preside over the deliberations and speak for you here in 22                 court.

23                 You will then discuss the case with your fellow jurors to reach agreement if you can 24                 do so. Your verdict must be unanimous.

25                 Each of you must decide the case for yourself, but you should do so only after you 26                 have considered all of the evidence, discussed it fully with the other jurors, and listened to 27                 the views of your fellow jurors.

28                 Do not hesitate to change your opinion if the discussion persuades you that you

1 should. Do not come to a decision simply because other jurors think it is right.

2 It is important that you attempt to reach a unanimous verdict but, of course, only if 3 each of you can do so after having made your own conscientious decision. Do not change
4 an honest belief about the weight and effect of the evidence simply to reach a verdict.

5 If it becomes necessary during your deliberations to communicate with me, you may 6 send a note through the courtroom deputy, signed by your presiding juror or by one or 7 more members of the jury. No member of the jury should ever attempt to communicate
8 with me except by a signed writing; I will communicate with any member of the jury on 9 anything concerning the case only in writing, or here in open court. If you send out a 10 question, I will consult with the parties before answering it, which may take some time.
11 You may continue your deliberations while waiting for the answer to any question.
12 Remember that you are not to tell anyone—including me—how the jury stands, 13 numerically or otherwise, until after you have reached a unanimous verdict or have been 14 discharged. Do not disclose any vote count in any note to the court.

15 A verdict form has been prepared for you. After you have reached unanimous 16 agreement on a verdict, your presiding juror will fill in the form that has been given to you,
17 sign and date it, and will advise the Court that you are ready to return to the courtroom.

18 IT IS SO ORDERED.
